DETAILED ACTIONClaim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 1, 4-7, 13-15, and 19-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hakim (US 6,647,828).

Hakim discloses a device that is adapted to scrape sweat from an animal comprising a core 26 having a handle 18, and an elongated curved blade 38. The core 26 is made from a first material, preferably polypropylene, and a sheath is made from a second, softer material preferably made from Krayton, silicone, or other elastomers. Hakim, col. 2, lns.41-49.

As seen in Hakim's Figure 6B, recreated above, the sheath 12a, & 12b is provided on said a length of said core 10 defining in the blade portion. Sheath portions 12a and 12b define scraper blade edges, which are adapted to scrape sweat from an animal. Further the blade portion 10 shown above is curved and trough-like.

Art Unit: 3644

Regarding claims 14 and 15, the blade portion 38 is considered to extend from the end farthest from the handle portion 18 to the base of the handle portion. Therefore the scraper blade 38 comprises the portion shown in figure 6(A) having a tongue and groove interlock between the scraper blade core and the sheath.

Regarding claim 19, scraper blade edges 12a and 12b are substantially parallel, and regarding claim 20, the scraper blade 38 has a substantially constant width.

3. While it is noted that Hakim teaches element 38, and not element 18, to be usable as the handle, applicant is reminded that it is well settled case law that such limitations in apparatus type claims, which are essentially method limitations or statements of intended or desired use, do not serve to patentably distinguish the claimed structure over that of the reference. See: In re Pearson, 181 USPQ 641; In re Yanush, 177 USPQ 705; In re Finsterwalder, 168 USPQ 530; In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235; In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458; Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ 2d 1647.

See MPEP 2114 which states:

A claim containing a "recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus" if the prior art apparatus teaches all the structural limitations of the claim. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1987).

While features of an apparatus may be recited either structurally or functionally, claims directed to an apparatus must be distinguished from the prior art in terms of structure rather than function. In re Schreiber, 128 F.3d 1473, 1477-78, 44 USPQ2d 1429, 1431-32 (Fed. Cir. 1997), see also: In re Swinehart, 439 F.2d 210, 212-13, 169 USPQ 226, 228-29 (CCPA 1971); In re Danly, 263 F.2d 844, 847, 120 USPQ 528, 531 (CCPA 1959).

"[A]pparatus claims cover what a device is, not what a device does." Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Bausch & Lomb Inc., 909 F.2d 1464, 1469, 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (Fed. Cir. 1990) (emphasis in original).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hakim.

6. Hakim discloses the claimed device except the specific elastomer or rubber is not positively disclosed, Hakim only noted that other suitable elastomers may be used. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use thermoplastic vulcanite, or ethylene propylene diene monomer rubber and a polypropylene, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice.

In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.
